

Massage is one of the oldest, simplest forms of therapy. It is a system of stroking, pressing and kneading different areas the body to relieve pain, relax, stimulate and tone the body. Massage does much more than create a pleasant sensation on the skin, it also works on the soft tissues, such as the muscles, tendons and ligaments, to improve muscle tone.

Although it largely affects those muscles just under the skin, the benefits of massage may also reach the deeper layers of muscle and possibly even the organs themselves. It also stimulates blood circulation and assists lymphatic system, which runs parallel to the circulatory system, improving the elimination of waste throughout the body.
